

CV Johan Ferner Ström

Presentation

Artist, project manager and designer. Johan has completed several major public art projects in-house as well as in institutions and galleries, and has a thorough knowledge of the artistic creation / design, urban development and environmental analyzes. With roots in the communications industry and the art world, Johan early became interested in how art and spatial design can contribute to regional and local development as well as social structures. In recent years, he has worked with extensive art projects, analyzes and with training for designers and creators, who wish to further develop in entrepreneurship and he is frequently engaged as a lecturer.

Today, in addition to his art projects, he also works with urban development and cultural strategy in most contexts and with the restructuring of the Swedish Sculptors' Association's activities.

Johan is also one of the initiators of the Culture & Entrepreneurship program at Södertörn University, which started in 2009.

I have worked with several major art projects in public space. The effects of these projects has resulted in considerable interest in the urban development process and the structural changes that occur in an area when you dare to think differently.

Working with urban projects require a broad-minded vision. Taking into account all the sediments, both historically and visionary. I have had the opportunity to work on assignments where I, along with fantastic employees sought to weave together art, architecture, landscaping, and social needs to a natural unit. To identify and strengthen areas with art and design has felt important and stimulating, but is just one of the tools in this context. I believe in optimizing the effects of ideas in an area through participation, in dialogue with users, entrepreneurs, urban developers and the media so that both the creative process and the final result reach the desired added value.

Play Scapes

As part of my work with public art, I have developed a number of concept play scapes in Sweden and abroad. Sculptural play objects that also function as public art when the park is not used by the children. I have never made a difference in the expression when it comes to children and adults. Children should have the same opportunity to experience art and philosophize around the object as adults have. The only differens is that you are allowed to use it.
